

Hannah King is a Life Coach with Triumph, and volunteers her time with our admin and marketing team. She graduated from Western Kentucky University with her bachelor's degree in Communication and from University of South Carolina with a master's in education. She's a recent transplant from Kentucky, and is already loving exploring Birmingham and the fun it has to offer! She has a background in marketing and recruitment, and has spent the past 10 years working in higher education with adult learners. She is excited to be working with Triumph and what they represent to the community and metro area and loves the new opportunities that Life Coaching provides.
