

Brittany graduated from The University of Alabama with a Bachelors in Communicative Disorders and a minor in Human Development and Family Studies. She is originally from Birmingham, AL. Before she moved back to B'ham she did volunteer work at Rise of Tuscaloosa and The Child Development and Research Center at the university. She is extremely passionate about working with children and adults who have mental disabilities and have suffered from traumatic brain injuries. She likes to shop, read, do make up, go to church and hang out with her family in her spare time.
