Aminta Johnson is a strong advocate for the students she serves in Triumph's Transition Program. Aminta does not focus on the disability and believes that her students are capable of doing whatever they want. Aminta attributes her passion for unleashing potential in her own personal mentors, including her mother and school professors. Aminta's biggest accomplishment at Triumph is rebuilding a curriculum to create a successful, thriving, and growing transition program. We can't wait to see what is next for Aminta Johnson!
